What is AWAX™?

AWAX™ is a PC-Based control and monitoring system, designed from the ground up to work with a variety of applications from tank monitoring to water level management operations. AWAX™ was created to provide remote data collection (data logging), systems and levels monitoring and systems control in an industrial environment. As an open, flexible and expandable solution, designed to work with our telemetry outstations, the system works over a variety of communications options worldwide.

Featuring multi-level password access, easy accessibility of data, along with archiving and trending historical data access, AWAX™ provides a unique solution to any remote monitoring requirements.

Our user interface can be seen in the screenshots below, with bespoke page design and development, the system is fully customisable, ensuring that only the data relevant to you is displayed.
